INVOKE NATION'S COURTS TO PUNISH MERGER LAWBREAKERS

Mrs. Mollie Tennis Who Asks Divorce of Slayer

United States Government Blocks Mellen Monopolies, Following Agitation Started by Independence League.

Following the verdict of the Massachusetts Supreme Court finding the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad guilty of law-breaking, vigorous prosecution of the company was begun to-day in the United States Circuit Court by the Federal Government.

The government charges that the New Haven road stands guilty of violating the law in buying up competing trolley roads in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut, and asks the court to compel the road to give them up.

The government asks the court to prevent the New Haven road from exercising any control over the Boston & Maine Railroad through the power of its stock, which the government declares the road has bought up in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, and is therefore guilty of a conspiracy in restraint of trade.

JAILED CHILD-SLAYER FIGHTS WIFE'S DIVORCE

IN FELON'S GARB IS TAKEN FROM PRISON TO COURT FOR HEARING OF SUIT.

Louis Tennis, who is fighting a suit for divorce, brought against him by his wife, Mollie, journeyed to the Pemberton Square courthouse to-day in his felon's garb, but when he appeared in court were civilian dress because of the kindness of Judge Fox.

The judge allowed the convict to don in the guardroom the clothes brought there by the prisoner's mother and sister.

Tennis rode in a cab from Charlestown State Prison, where he is serving a sentence of from 11 to 20 years for killing his own three-year-old child. A prison officer rode with him and they were handcuffed together.

While in the courtroom to-day Tennis with his face blanched by prison pallor, sat between his mother and sister. His mother broke down and wept continuously. Mrs. Tennis, the prisoner's wife, never looked at the husband, who tried to kill her and took the life of their child instead.

Wistfully Views Crowds.

She is suing for divorce on the grounds of cruel and abusive treatment and began the action before the tragedy which cost the life of an innocent child. Tennis went to his wife's home to urge her to abandon the suit and their conversation drove him into a paroxysm of rage.

He fired several times at his wife and one bullet killed the child. Tennis pleaded guilty to manslaughter and was given his long sentence as punishment.

When his wife pressed her divorce suit Tennis declared he would fight it. He was taken to court on a writ of habeas corpus. The ride from prison to the tribunal in Pemberton square was his first glimpse of the outside world for a long time. He pies looked out of the cab window upon streets and people with a wistful eye.

The hearing was continued until June because papers have yet to be served on Harry Schneider of Chicago, who is named as co-respondent.

But one witness was heard to-day. He is Isaac Siegel, who lives at No. 66 Pleasant street, and formerly in a house also occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Tennis. Siegel testified that one night he heard a sound in the hallway that made him fear there was a prowler in the house. He went forth armed with a poker on a search for the intruder, and says he saw, when he reached the top floor, Mrs. Tennis and a man called "Freddy," who also lived in the house.

Wounded Wife and Self.

The tragedy which cost Tennis his liberty was committed on January 17, last year, at No. 17 Auburn street, in the West End, where his wife was living with her mother and her little son, Philip. Tennis, when he opened fire with his revolver, shot his wife in the neck and after fatally wounding the child shot himself in the breast. Former Attorney-General Parker defended Tennis at his trial on the charge of manslaughter and pleaded the prisoner's blinding, torturing jealousy of his wife as an extenuating circumstance.

When the court proceedings were over to-day Tennis was taken back to Charlestown prison. Former Senator John Quincy is now attorney for Tennis. The wife is accused of improper conduct by her estranged husband in his reply to her divorce

MELLEN HURRIES TO NEW YORK

News of the merger prosecution begun in Boston to-day caused consternation among the officials of the road in New Haven. President Charles S. Mellen, who was at his Summer home in Stockbridge, was notified by telephone.

President Mellen starts late to-day for New York, to confer with William Rockefeller and other directors of the road, and will then proceed at once to Washington in an effort to have the prosecution delayed.

News of the government's sweeping prosecution of the New Haven road was given out to-day in Washington at the office of Attorney-General Bonaparte. District Attorney French in Boston, who will have charge of the prosecution in Boston, promised to give out a detailed statement late to-day.

ROOSEVELT BACKS ACTION.

It is known that President Roosevelt talked with Mr. French and Attorney-General Bonaparte at the White House a few weeks ago, and that President Roosevelt is determined to force President Mellen to give up his stock control of the Boston & Maine, as well as to give up the trolley lines he has bought up in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut.

The government, in its petition, declares that the New Haven road, by its acquisition of the trolley roads and control of the Boston & Maine Railroad, has established a virtual monopoly of all transportation facilities by land in the New England States.

The action by the government to-day is based upon Sections 1 and 2 of the Sherman anti-trust law, to prevent conspiracies and monopolies in restraint of trade. The penalty for violation of these sections of the law is a fine of $5,000 for each offense, and, if the court sees fit, imprisonment of the conspirators.

NOTICE SERVED BY LEAGUE.

To-day's action by the Federal Government comes as a direct result of a formal notice of the illegal acts of President Mellen and his associates served upon the Independence League by Attorney-General Bonaparte on April 15.

Section 2—Every person who shall monopolize, or attempt to monopolize, or combine or conspire with any other person or persons to monopolize any part of the trade or commerce among the several States or with foreign nations, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and, on conviction thereof, shall be punished by FINE NOT EXCEEDING $5,000, or by IMPRISONMENT not exceeding ONE YEAR, or BY BOTH said punishments, in the discretion of the Court.

WEST SIDE BASEBALL PARK, Chicago, May 22.—Both Young and Lindaman warmed up for the Doves just before the third game of the Chicago-Boston series to-day.

It looked like Lindaman had the call and would do the twirling for the visitors, the vapors the theory that it would not do to send two left handers against the Cubs as was many days. As Flaherty took the box game of yesterday by the score of 11 to 3, Lindaman had the call, and Manager Kelley said he was almost certain he would send him to the box.

Brown was scheduled to work for the Cubs and it promised to be a battle royal. Brown has not worked since Sunday, when he held the Brooklyns to a lone hit and did not give them a run. He is in grand form just now.

A fair crowd was out to-day following the raising of the world's championship bunting. The horrible game played by the Cubs yesterday undoubtedly kept many away.

The Boston team is going at its best just now, and Manager Kelley certainly is a happy man.

"Not a change is contemplated in my club," said he. "We're going too good. If we can keep up the gait we're going now we should improve our position in the race before many days have passed. We will probably be in the first division when the team reaches Boston. If we are not, the teams ahead of us will have to play some fast baseball."

Flaherty to-day was cheered when he walked on the field for practice. He is a favorite here, having been a member of Comiskey's White Sox a few years ago. Yesterday he pitched a heady game, working that swift return of his to the limit and sending the Cubs into the air.

HUNTINGTON AVENUE BASEBALL GROUNDS, Boston, May 22.—Shortly after 3 o'clock a light rain began to fall and the question whether there would be a ball game at once became an important one. Holders of rain checks from yesterday's game were on hand early to get the best seats, but they were kept waiting outside the gates while the management watched the sky and speculated on the chances of clearing weather.

Both the Red Sox and the St. Louis were anxious to play. A postponement to-day would only pile on the doubleheaders for later in the season. If there is anything a ball player hates worse than could weather it is a double header. The double header usually comes around on a stifling day, and however much the fans may enjoy things, the ball player has no use for the two-games-for-one-price-of-admission.

Government Blocks Merger; Prosecutes New Haven Railroad

AGITATION STARTED BY THE INDEPENDENCE LEAGUE RESULTS IN FEDERAL ACTION.

lea and the New Haven road, served upon the Federal Government through its agent in Boston, United States District Attorney Asa P. French, by Granville S. MacFarland, on behalf of the Independence League of Massachusetts, of whose executive committee he is chairman.

This formal notice was given Mr. French by Mr. MacFarland in a letter nearly a year ago. The suit of the New Haven road, the injunction proceedings brought before the legislative committees, and the law in the statutes are all set forth in detail. Mr. French acknowledged the receipt of the letter, and he and Mr. MacFarland at once had a number of conferences. Mr. French declared that the Federal Government had started the investigations of the violations of the law alleged.

FRENCH TOOK ACTION.

From time to time Mr. French reported through the newspapers that the investigation was still going on. Finally on April 25 last, Mr. MacFarland wrote a second letter to Mr. French, reminding him of his previous notice and mentioning that Mr. French to explain the delay as to whether there is or is not to be action by the Federal Government against this great attack upon the business and political independence of New England.

Following the receipt of this letter, Mr. French took a hurried trip to Washington. Soon after he returned, the Attorney General's department in Washington gave out notice there of the action which was taken today. The first report was promptly denied by the New Haven's press agent in Washington, and the denial was printed in many papers throughout the United States.

In the petition filed here in court today with the Circuit Court the details of the various acts of the New Haven are set forth, and the petition shows how the New Haven Company has persistently pursued efforts under the guise of suppressing all competition with it until now, with the exception aforesaid, it dominates practically all inter-transportation facilities between and among the seven New England states, and between these States and the rest of the United States.

HITS B. & M. MERGER.

The petition, after praying that the combination and monopoly set forth therein be declared a violation of the Sherman anti-trust act, asks that the New Haven company be enjoined from acquiring control over the various electric railways which it has acquired, and likewise that it be prevented from exercising any control whatsoever over the Boston & Maine Railroad.

The petition alleges that the New Haven company has acquired control over approximately 2500 out of the 3000 miles of electric railway in Connecticut, and one of 500 in Rhode Island and about 600 in Massachusetts, which railways prior to such control were engaged in active competition with the New Haven company; also that in acquiring a large interest in the capital stock of the Boston & Maine Railroad, about 35 per cent thereof, it has secured practical control over said railroad; and that, by the acquisition of the electric lines, and the control of the Boston & Maine Railroad, it has established a virtual monopoly of all transportation business in New England, including that of Vermont and Maine, with the exception of the small business done by the Boston & Albany Railroad.

Today's action by the Federal Government is the initiative of another step in the action now pending in the State courts of Massachusetts, brought by the Attorney General of this State. The Supreme Court of Massachusetts has within the past few weeks declared the trolley holdings of the New Haven to be illegal. If they are given up the Supreme Court has the power to declare the road in contempt, and to fine the corporation and imprison its officers. The State Supreme Court's ruling affects only the trolley roads acquired in Massachusetts.

LEAGUE STARTED FEDERAL ACTION

The investigation of the acts of the New Haven road and President Mellen by the Federal government has an interesting history, culminating today in the proceedings begun in the United States Circuit Court.

It began when President Charles S. Mellen of the New Haven road last Summer in his private car, marched up Beacon Hill, told the Legislature to mind its own business and not bother about him and his charges and trolley roads and such things, and then marched down again.

Apparently all this and nothing to do with the Federal government as represented down in Postoffice square in the office of the United States District Attorney for this district. It didn't interest anyone outside of Massachusetts at first, but finally the story began to unfold, and witnesses before the legislative committee of the State House showed how President Charles Sanger Mellen's intentions were plainly to invite a monopoly of all transportation facilities in New England. The evidence showed that he had grabbed up interstate trolley roads, and had secured a controlling interest in the Boston and Maine with its interstate traffic.

MAD DOG RUNS AMUCK TO-DAY IN CAMBRIDGE

Unidentified Man's Leg Bitten, Another Man Escapes by Leaping Fence.

LASSOED BY POLICEMAN

One man was bitten on the leg and another saved himself by leaping a high fence after a supposedly mad dog had made its the vicinity of Sixth and Harvard streets, Cambridge, today. Until the arrival of Patrolman Dinn of the Second station the dog held the neighborhood at bay, no one daring to venture into the street.

The animal, a black mongrel, was first noticed sniffing at corners on Harvard street. Several times he leaped at teams and endeavored to reach the drivers.

An unknown man walking through the street was seized by the dog and his leg bitten. He beat the animal off and went in search of medical attendance. Another man saw the dog coming, and by a quick sprint reached a fence, which he vaulted in the nick of time.

Station 2 was notified, and Patrolman Dinn, with a lasso, in the use of which he is an expert, chased the dog until he corered him in a yard on Main street near the quarters of Engine 7, the firemen assisting in the capture.

Dinn took his captive to the station in the patrol wagon and kept him confined until the arrival of Dr. Charles Harlock, the inspector of animals. Dr. Harlock decided that the animal should be killed. His head was removed and will be sent to the animal department for examination to determine if the beast was affected with rabies.

The police are searching for the colored man, who apparently is unaware of any danger to himself.

declarations of policies concerning such situations from those who could speak with authority of the administration of which you are so important and such respected part.

"After submitting with the authorities at Washington you answered immediately with the full assurance of prompt and vigorous action if upon investigation the facts related out in my communication appeared to warrant action. Many months have come and gone since then without action except such as the law-defying railroad has taken to strengthen its unlawful position. The facts which indicated violation of the Federal law have not changed except to grow stronger. Long, long ago I called United States District Attorney Asa P. French a transcript of the evidence taken before the legislative committee, together with certain decisions of the courts in such cases, notably that of Justice Harlan of the Supreme Court of the United States in the Northern Securities case, formally asking that Mr. French proceed at once to invoke the aid of the Federal courts to restrain the New Haven road for violating the Sherman anti-trust law.

Mr. MacFarland's letter was dated on August 21 last. In the following December Mr. French's complete report of the alleged illegal acts of Mr. Mellen and his road were sent to Washington. Assistant Attorney-General Purdy made a special trip to Boston. Mr. French made several trips to Washington, all in pursuance of the inquiry or investigation. Mr. Bonaparte, the Attorney-General, had in hand evidence, personally, Washington dispatches stated, that would convict the New Haven road. Later, it was announced, President Roosevelt himself had taken the matter up.

Mr. MacFarland's Second Letter.

Finally on the twenty-fifth of last month Mr. MacFarland, on behalf of the Independence League, wrote a second formal letter to Mr. French, reminding him of the notice of one year before, and inquiring as to the delay.

Mr. MacFarland, in his second formal notice, said:

"The State Committee of the Independence League has, Summer called to your attention as the federal prosecuting officer for Massachusetts certain facts and certain

"NOTHING TO SAY," REPLY BYRNES' OFFICE MAKES

"Anything to be said must come from New Haven," was all that could be gleaned at the office of Vice-President Byrnes today in the South Terminal. Vice-President Byrnes left Boston yesterday, and is not expected back until to-morrow.

Began Prosecutions To-day.

Today District Attorney French began the prosecution on behalf of the Federal Government. Like the prosecution of E. H. Harriman on a similar charge of grabbing competition western railroad lines, the prosecution of Mr. Mellen and the New Haven road will be relentless by the government officials.

In the meantime the State of Massachusetts by the Supreme Court, has declared the grabbing up of the trolley roads by the New Haven illegal, and directed the road to give them up. If the road does not, President Mellen and the corporation stand liable to be haled before the Supreme Court for contempt. As an example of the seriousness of a contempt charge based upon continued violations of the Sherman anti-trust law, it need only be stated that Mr. John D. Rockefeller was fined some $29,000,000 for being in contempt of court in a number of specific cases.

The Massachusetts Legislature is now considering what to do about securing control of the Boston & Maine by the New Haven road, a separate question from that of the trolley grab. If the Federal Courts rule, as a result of today's petition, that the New Haven road must not exercise any control over the Boston & Maine, it can only comply at once, and sell out its stock, all regardless of what the Massachusetts Legislature may decide about it, for the Boston & Maine is an interstate road doing interstate business.

MOTHER'S STORY NEW CLEW IN STAULA CASE

INFORMATION GLEANED FROM PARENT OF SLAIN GIRL STIRS POLICE TO ACTIVITY.

Information regarded as important by the police has been gained from Mrs. Dominic Staula, mother of pretty Louise Staula, slain in the Dedham meadows ten days ago, relative to the movements of certain persons on the evening of the tragedy.

The process of elimination practiced in the Annie Mullins case is being used in an endeavor to reach the guilty person in this remarkable mystery.

In the story told to the police by Mrs. Staula, the dead child's mother, she said:

Mother Starts on Search.

"Louise got home from school that day (the day she was killed) about 4:30, and as she came in the yard she hollered to me that she was going up to Celia De Biasco's. I said, 'If you go anywhere else I won't whip you when you come back,' and with that she started up the path toward Celia's. After she had gone I stayed in the house and did housework. The other children had supper about 5:30, I am sure my daughter Jennie had supper that night with the children. Jennie said to me as Louise was going over to Celia's house, 'You always let her go and it's your fault if she comes home late nights.'

"As the time went on I didn't ask anyone where Louise was, because sometimes she was missing at that hour. It was at most 8 o'clock when I went up to Celia's house to look for her, and Mrs. De Biasco said she hadn't seen Louise. Celia said she went all alone for flowers in the woods up the path toward Celia's. After she had gone down the path toward the hill We walked down a bit a little way, and after loitering there we came back.

"Then I went to other houses in the vicinity, and, not finding her, started off for Mary's house, about a mile and a half on the road. Mary is my daughter. The girl wasn't at Mary's and I told them all up and told them Louise was missing. I started off alone for home and later got there.

Finds Body in Swamp.

I got home about 9:15, and Dominic was there. Dominic said we would have to go to the police station, and after Dominic went I went alone down the path, but when I got down where I got started because the Nolli dogs barked. When I got back to the house Dominic said Mary show us where you think Louise went, and we started off. I don't remember whether Dominic and the men were in front of us or not. I went up toward the hill because I had seen her up there on Saturday. The other children had supper about 5:30, and with Mary I took a side path because that was where I saw her on Saturday.

"As I walked along I cried 'Oh, Louise, dear Louise, dead or alive or if you are in difficulty I will take you home.' As I said that a branch of a tree scratched me on the face, and when I turned around I saw something white low over the hill. The something looked like a rag and I went down. I saw it was Louise and I called out, 'Louise, Louise,' but I didn't want to wake her up. I took hold of her shoulder and it was cold. When I turned her around I saw blood on her face and the rocks were red. She came with me and we started around the street, and she said she hadn't seen the child. She came with me and we started toward her home.

AID OF CATHOLIC CHURCH NEEDED IN PHILIPPINES

—Secretary Taft

NASHVILLE, May 22.—Secretary William H. Taft, in an address before the Bar Association of Tennessee, last night discussed the taking over of the Philippines by the Government. He closed as follows:

The Roman Catholic church in the Philippines is in a deplorable condition from a property and financial standpoint. Its losses during the revolutionary war were heavy. The destruction of its priests interfered greatly with its usefulness and influence.

This is the most unfortunate matter for the islands, viewed from a purely governmental standpoint. The Roman Catholic Church must always be the most important influence for uplifting of the Filipinos. Since the American occupation other denominations have gone into the lands and have been doing good there, both directly and because the spirit of Christian emulation, which their presence creates, does good to the older church.

As a non-Catholic I sincerely believe and I think that there are no Protestants that know the conditions in the Island who do not admit that it will be of much advantage to the islands as a whole to have the Roman Catholic Church restored to a condition of prosperity. This change for the better must be slow because of the change from payment of priests by the government to payment by contributions of the congregations.

FATHER AGAINST MOTHER, GIRL WITNESS IN SUIT

RICH ELEVATOR MAKER NAMED AS CO-RESPONDENT IN PERRY CASE FAILS TO APPEAR.

Charles D. Moore, the wealthy elevator manufacturer, named as co-respondent in the divorce proceedings of William H. Perry against his wife Cora, and who was also been sued for $25,000 by Mr. Perry for alienation of Mrs. Perry's affections, did not appear in court during the trial of the divorce case, to defend himself. Mr. Perry is a steward at the Copley Square Hotel and Mr. Moore has frequent appointments there.

Mr. Moore's absence from the court room was explained by his brother Joseph Moore, who is a member of the same business firm.

"My brother Charles was taken sick on a runaway in January, 1907, as the result of which he suffered a fracture of the skull. He was voluntarily committed to the Massachusetts General Hospital for an operation, leaving there after several weeks and in June 1907, I was appointed his guardian.

"At the present time he attends to the affairs of the firm in South Boston, but is easily excited. I do not want him to testify in court, which would, I think, rather take whatever results may come from this trial rather than benefit him in health by having him leave."

Under cross-examination of Counsel Noonan, counsel for Perry, Moore admitted that his brother Charles' health was not such that he could testify without restraint.

"Don't you think the chief reason he was not under your guardianship was for the purpose of making an excuse to be used in this divorce trial which was called two weeks before?" Mr. Moore asked.

"Not the whole reason if that an influence," replied the witness.

Dr. Leroy G. Cornish of No. 566 Commonwealth avenue, Back Bay, was treated by Mrs. Moore in February, 1907, immediately after the accident, said that Moore was still in his care. He is now a most irresponsible person and I do not consider it wise for him to testify in court.

On the witness stand Mrs. Perry, who is a good looking woman of thirty-three, denied all the allegations made by her husband and his witnesses.

She also denied that she was friendly with Mr. Moore and declared that she had never received presents from the latter.

Mr. Bancroft was brought in every one of the friends who called at the house.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry's pretty twelve year old daughter Evelyn testified for the counter part agreed with the story told by her mother.

On cross-examination she admitted that Mr. Moore was at the house one afternoon when her father was not at home and had brought her a big doll, which her father smashed later, she said, on learning that it came from Mr. Moore.

Miss Wilkins of Nashua, New Hampshire, father of Mrs. Perry, testified to cruelty in court. The youngest child Dorothy, aged eight, since she was born.

"I would like to keep the child, Your Honor," he testified. "It would break my heart within forty-eight hours if she was taken away. She is as dear to me as my own life."

Judge Fox took the case under advisement, but said he would leave Dorothy in the custody of her grandfather in New Hampshire.

He did not think it wise to have the child in the immediate into whose custody she would give Evelyn.

DIED OF FRIGHT UPON SEEING A SPOT OF BLOOD

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, May 22.—Frightened at the sight of a little spot of blood on her waist Mrs. Katherine Hardigan of No. 304 Wooster avenue, Flatbush, rose from a chair in which she was seated, uttered a cry and dropped to the floor dead. Dr. Dorschheimer, a neighboring physician, who was hurriedly called, said the young woman had died from fear. Mrs. Hardigan, a widow of a few months, was preparing breakfast for her sister, Rose Loginanski, was aiding her. The first named of the two women had gone to the kitchen to secure a tool or bread and a knife. Her sister stepped into a closet in the room adjoining and as Mrs. Hardigan passed she opened the door and the blade of the knife struck her just above the heart. It pricked the skin, but the injury was so slight neither of the two noticed it.

Half an hour later the mother of the girls came into the dining room. She looked at Mrs. Hardigan and pointing to the blood spot asked "Where did you get that?"

The young woman shifted in her seat, her face turned ashen. She took a single look at the bloodspot, leaped quickly to her feet, uttered a shrill cry, and cover ing her eyes with her hands, fell back to the floor dead.

JAPAN FAVORS ARBITRATION, SAYS TAKAHIRA

By Boston American Leased Wire.

LAKE MOHONK, N. Y., May 22.—Notwithstanding Japan's present progress in war in the last dozen years and the rousing military spirit of the Island Kingdom, Baron Takahira, the Japanese Ambassador at Washington, declared before the Mohonk peace convention to-day that his nation is ready to lend herself to the arbitration of international differences.

The Baron's speech was the feature of the morning session of the conference.

Among other things he said:

"Arbitration is considered a practical means to bring about the amicable settlement of international disputes. You are certainly aware that since many years Japan has been sometimes a party to this method of adjusting international differences.

"It is needless to say that the United States has distinguished itself in its foreign policy by a high sense of justice and fair play, and yet with such a power, strong and civilized as the prime mover, nothing further could be done than what has been accomplished.

"As regards Japan, she is holding her own despite many calamities. The incessant certitudes of her attitude and policy in the far East are due, to my opinion, to hasty conclusions of traveling observers."

BOMBS WRECK 5 CARS; 10 HURT IN CLEVELAND

By Boston American Leased Wire.

CLEVELAND, O., May 22.—Five cars were wrecked by dynamite bombs and ten people badly injured to-day in the series on the three-cent trolley system.

About midnight a Euclid avenue car was blown up by a bomb at the corner of Doan and Sixteenth street. H. F. Mahler, a passenger, sustained a broken leg and other injuries. A woman who was in the car was blown into the street, but refused to give her name and was carried away in an automobile. Six other persons were injured more or less.

A squad of police were hurried to the scene, but no arrests were made. The car was completely demolished.

Simultaneously a car on St. Clair street was blown from the track, the wheel was blown off, but no one was injured. A car on the One Hundred and Fifth street line was wrecked and Patrolman Sands, who was riding upon the platform, was blown several yards away upon the sidewalk. As he arose he saw a man running away and fired four shots at him but without effect.

The fore-wheels had passed over the explosive without setting it off. As the wheels of the rear truck ran over the dynamite it exploded, tearing the vehicle almost to kindling wood.

The windows of all the houses in the neighborhood were broken, and George Ignaut, a crippled boy, who was seated upon the porch of his home, was hurled to the floor with such violence as to cause him serious hurts. A physician who attended the lad does not hold forth much hope for his recovery.

Two other cars were dynamited early to-day, but on account of the early morning hour there were no passengers and no one was hurt.

WASHINGTN, May 22.—Admiral Evans called at the White House to-day for the first time since his return from the Pacific coast and received the congratulations of President Roosevelt.

"The President expressed the desire to obtain for me the rank of vice-admiral, but at the same time he expressed doubt of his ability to do so. If the rank is conferred upon me, I shall be very glad to get it. If not, I shall manage to do very well as I am."

BROKE BOTH LEGS TURNING IN BED

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 22.—Miss Margaret Kramer of Philadelphia fractured both legs while turning over in bed yesterday morning. Miss Kramer, who has been the guest of her brother, Dr. Charles F. Kramer, a prominent druggist, for some time, has been suffering from rheumatism. The accident has attracted considerable attention among medical men.

DEMAND CUT IN PHONE RATE FOR TAUNTON

TAUNTON, May 22.—The special committee appointed by the Board of Aldermen to secure for the city a concession in telephone rates has sent a letter to Superintendent T. G. Parker of the telephone company demanding rates as low as those granted in other cities.

The committee has instructed the inspector of wires and chief of police to see that no wires are strung on city poles without permits, and has notified city employes that they are expected to pay for their own telephones, heretofore maintained at the city's expense, or have them taken out.

The letter says in part:

"Our committee is determined to secure for the city as great concessions as is given by your company to any other city, which in Brockton is a 75 per cent. discount and in Fall River is a 50 per cent. discount to the city and its employes, and we know of certain instances where free telephones are given.

"We ask a fair deal for our city and propose to get it, and as a profitable business proposition for you we would suggest that you should seek cordiality rather than enmity with our city and our citizens."

Torpid Livers Must Not be Treated Harshly

Salts and catharties will wake the liver to action. But note what else they do.

They ruin the stomach, so that nearly all dyspepsia is due to them.

They harden the liver, as shown by the fact that a larger dose becomes necessary.

The end is dyspepsia and constipation. You have caused what you sought to cure.

Delicate organs cannot be helped by abuse.

Drastic physic is never used by those who know. This is the day of the gentle in medicine.

Cascarets bring all the good results with none of the ill effects.

They aid digestion, while catharties ruin it. They restore the natural functions which catharties wreck.

SEEK AUTO THAT STRUCK WOMAN

The automobile which knocked down Mrs. Kate Gorman of No. 117 Howard street, Roxbury, on Beacon street late Wednesday in front of the Puritan Club and then speeded away and has not as yet been identified. Joseph A. Azarian of No. 91 West Canton avenue, denies the auto was his.

"I noticed the woman to whom they refer," he explains, "and she stopped as she was crossing the street to permit me to pass. There was another auto about fifteen feet behind me which may have struck her, as it went past me at a very rapid speed a moment later and I heard someone shout."

The machine that hit Mrs. Gorman contained a man and a woman and it drove rapidly out of sight over the hill.

She was not badly injured, and after being cared for by the members of the Puritan Club, was able to proceed on her way home.

The members of the Puritan Club are irate at the driver of the auto, and are determined to probe the matter fully.

We believe the most outrageous monopoly ever imposed upon the citizens of Boston is that of the Edison Electric Light Company. We believe that the city debt to-day is twenty million dollars more than it would be if the lighting system had been properly managed, and it had not fallen into the hands of outsiders. The Finance Commission and our Mayor Hibbard all seem afraid to investigate the lighting business, as they have promised to do.

I hereby agree to light the City of Boston free of charge and furnish light to all the people for five cents per kilowatt, if they will give me the same privilege the Edison Company gets for nothing.

The Edison Company have got the city, legislature and Gas Commission almost exactly as they want them, and now demand from 11c to 14c a kilowatt for that which costs them about one cent.

God save the City of Boston and the Commonwealth of Massachusetts from the Edison Electric Light Company.

Yours truly,

LITTLE DOING FOR THE HOOK

There was nothing slow about the going of amateurs that Manager Farrell sent forth last evening to entertain his audience at the Columbia. In fact, they made the chorus girls' contest look like a rank imitation of the real goods. While the chorus girls did themselves credit as soloists, they did not furnish anything out of the usual, but the amateurs were there with the goods and kept the big crowd in a demonstrative state of laughter. The young women were not as numerous as usual, but the few who did put in an appearance were favorably received. Little Rose Bradley was easily the favorite and ranked next to the Turner Brothers in the awarding of the prizes.

FALLS TO DEATH DOWN SHAFT

Albert B. Drew, an engineer, employed at the building, No. 522 Washington street, died at the Relief Hospital soon after his arrival as a result of injuries sustained in falling down an elevator well. Myer Polaske of No. 190 Second street, Chelsea, a carpenter, fell from the second story of the new home of the Jewish Charitable Association on Queen street, Dorchester, today, and sustained a bad gash on the forehead and internal injuries, which were relieved by Harry Edels.

SMOKE TALK A SUCCESS

The Young Men's Democratic Club of Ward 9 gave the first of a series of smoke talks at its rooms last evening and the event was a grand success. Jas. Moore and Sam Langford, Fred Sidney and Eddie Curtis, Harry Baker and Kid Russell, the Joyce brothers, Tom Kelley and Dutch Freeman, Angus McDougall and Billy Rohr, Charley Stone and Tim McCarthy and Young Jack Johnson and Young Wells gave some clever exhibitions of boxing, which were refereed by Harry Edels.

SCORE HURT AS CARS CRASH ON BRIDGE INCLINE

Heavily Laden, Three Cars Plunge Round Loop at Brooklyn Terminal.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, May 22—More than a score of persons were injured and eleven so seriously injured that they were taken to hospitals in a collision of trolley cars at the Manhattan side of the Brooklyn Bridge to-day at the beginning of the rush hour.

The accident was due to the snapping of a brake on a Myrtle avenue car which had just crossed the centre span of the bridge and struck the incline down to the bridge entrance. The car was open and was jammed with passengers from platforms to platform. When the brake snapped the car leaped ahead and the motorman was unable to stop it or to reduce its speed by reversing the power.

Crashes Into Car Ahead.

Directly in front of the runaway car was a closed Flatbush avenue car, also crowded to its capacity. The Myrtle avenue car struck the car ahead with tremendous force, and the two started down the incline together. The rear platform of the second car was completely wrecked, and the front platform of the Myrtle avenue car was broken to pieces.

Glass fell on the heads of the passengers in the closed car, and splintered woodwork cut passengers in the open car. The motorman on the Flatbush avenue car tried to use the brakes, but the tracks were slippery, and the two cars, with the passengers screaming, were shot down the grade into the rear of a Vanderbilt avenue car, which was crowded.

The third car was struck with such force that it was raised from the tracks. It fell with the wheels in place, however, and the passengers tumbled about one on top of the other.

Race Down Incline.

The three cars then started on a race down the grade. The switchman saw the cars and tried to put them on the first loop. He turned loop No. 7 and the three cars swung around the curve with such speed as to almost topple them over. All of them left the tracks, the front car crashing into a Bergen avenue car on the next track.

The excitement was tremendous. Crowds attracted by the screams from the injured and frightened passengers, soon took possession of the bridge entrance. When the ambulances arrived many of the injured had been taken to neighboring stores on Park row. However, a number of the more serious injured were still in the road way bleeding from the cuts and lying helpless in the rain.

I'LL CONTINUE FIGHT AGAINST SENATOR PLATT

—MAE WOOD

Woman Held for Perjury After Losing "Divorce" Suit Promises Surprises.

NEW YORK, May 22.—Miss Mae Wood, who was arrested on a charge of perjury after losing her suit for "divorce" against Senator Thomas C. Platt yesterday, says she will fight her case against the Senator harder than ever if she is given the opportunity.

"We tried out of respect for his age to leave out some of the strongest points of our case," she said, "but next time everything will come out. He threatened my life four years ago if I breathed a word of his marriage to me. He said he had many employes who would do anything for him and that he would have them hunt me down. He is a big politician and has all the money. I haven't any. It means everything if I win."

"Will you plead guilty to the charge of perjury?" she was asked.

I'll Rot First," She Said.

"I'll rot first," she answered almost in a shriek, her lips thin and bloodless. "I'll rot first."

Unable to find bail, Mae Wood spent last night in a cell at the Tombs. Justice O'Gorman had summarily dismissed the divorce proceedings and committed her in default of $5,000 bail on his charge of perjury and forgery.

The fact Miss Wood in the position of a defendant who had had a hearing before a magistrate. Therefore, she was not entitled to a preliminary hearing, and the case went directly to the Grand Jury.

District Attorney Jerome, who has closely followed the case and who was present during the cross-examination of Miss Wood, took immediate action. Over night he reviewed the testimony and was ready with an application for an indictment this morning. He said:

"There's too much perjury in our courts. Justice O'Gorman, in a letter to my assistant, Mr. Nott, says that Miss Wood committed perjury before him. If an indictment follows the Grand Jury action I shall meet her case for trial at once.

"This case is one of a very vicious type of crimes that frequently occur in this city. We will act as speedily as possible in the hope that Miss Wood's conviction will furnish a salutary warning that such crimes cannot go unwhipped of justice."

Justice O'Gorman to-day ordered Mae Wood's arrest Captain Lynch of the Criminal Inquiry squad was at hand with the order of committment, and almost before the words of the Justice had ceased to echo through the chamber his hand had fallen upon the woman's shoulder. It was the most lightning-like bolt of the law ever witnessed by the court attendants.

Woman Plaintiff Stunned.

Miss Wood sat looking into the face of Justice O'Gorman like one fascinated. She has not time to turn around before Lynch had gently placed her under arrest. Then she sank back in her chair, stunned. Her black gloved hands closed tightly and she looked into the face of Le Barbier, her counsel.

Mr. Stanchfield went through some formal motions in behalf of Senator Platt, and Justice O'Gorman bodied his assent. He gathered his gown about him and swiftly walked from the room. He passed within two feet of Mae Wood, but she looked straight ahead now.

The news spread rapidly through the county courthouse. Clerks, witnesses, spectators, hangerson poured into Part 113. A group of gaudily dressed women crowded about the plaintiff prisoner. Mae Wood her nerves steeled for the ordeal, smiled cheerfully, and writing something on a slip of paper, handed it to Le Barbier.

It was a note to the manager of the Manhattan Hotel, where she had been living, asking him to send her the belongings to be found in her room. She signed the note "Mae C. Wood" and after a moment's hesitation added "Platt."

"You better go along now," said Le Barbier, "I'll take care of that."

"Very well," she replied, in steady tones. She bowed to Lynch—grim, grizzly, but tender for all that—he has escorted them all during his time—Van Patterson, young Mrs. Thaw, Josephine Terranova, not to mention Thaw himself, Molineux, Pat rick and some of the less fortunate who have passed beyond.

He bowed deferentially and taking her arm, Officer Schlessinger falling in on the other side, the procession started for the Tombs.

'LET US ALONE'

Tom Platt wears "the smile that won't come off" today.

LYNN NEWSBOY HERO RESCUES AGED VETERAN

Warm Praise for Brave Boy Who Pulled Man Out of Engine's Way.

HE GETS PRESENT OF $20

LYNN, May 22.—Haskell Monesin, of No. 111 Blossom street, bootblack and news boy, is a hero to-day. All Lynn is singing the little fellow's praises for bravery in risking his own life and saving an aged G. A. R. veteran from being ground to death beneath the wheels of the Portland express, Boston bound, at the Central square railroad station, where Haskell maintains a bootblacking establishment.

Feeble and deaf and ignorant of the approach of the fast train, the old man deliberately walked upon the tracks and started for the other side of the station. Young Monesin saw him and realized his danger. The crossing gates had been lowered, and the old man was penned between them.

Seized Man by Shoulders.

Haskell did not hesitate a moment. To see and act were the same thing with him. Like a flash he sprang from his stand to the track, grabbed the old man by the shoulders and rushed him to safety at a faster rate than he has probably travelled on foot for many years.

He cleared the track and the wheels of the heavy engine had grazed the kin of his heels.

"Honest, I thought I could feel it scrape against my back," said Haskell. "I put my hand around to see if it hadn't taken off a suspender button."

As for the old man, he looked around in a dazed sort of way and remarked feebly: "I didn't know a train was coming the other way."

With that he walked off, without leaving his name nor even thanking his rescuer.

General Manager Ralph S. Bauer, of the North Shore News Company, in appreciation of Monesin's act, has presented the young man with a crisp $20 bill. Also Mr. Bauer wrote him a letter of congratulation, saying:

Letter of Congratulation.

"I am reading with great pleasure of your brave act in saving a man's life at the Central Square crossing yesterday afternoon, and as you have been one of my newsboys for years, I want to say that I feel quite proud of you.

"I have always known you had the right stuff in you to do a brave thing at the proper time, and it only needed an opportunity for you to show it. I am enclosing you $20 bill, not as a reward for your brave act, but as a token that there are other friends interested in you, no matter where you may be or what you are doing."

SOCIETY SHOW TO AID CHELSEA

Twenty of the young and prettiest members of the most eminent families in the Back Bay and Brookline—all members of the Vincent Club—in a host of interested friends made an amateur scene in the big Boston Theatre between the shows yesterday, making arrangements for the vaudeville benefit for the Chelsea fire sufferers. This corps of ushers is selected from a host of volunteers, for at the meeting held a few days ago nearly every girl wanted to be an usher. At last time Miss Dorothy Forbes was the leader, but owing to a death in the family was obliged to relax her efforts, and Miss Adeline Jackson was appointed in her place as head usher. From the rest of the club Miss Jackson selected as her aids Miss Elizabeth Porter, Miss Leslie Lindsey, Miss Joan Bird, Miss Rosamond Long, Miss Eleonora Sears and Miss Rosamond Dixey, and they will have charge of the different sections of the house.

MRS. GUNNESS'S RIVAL IN CRIME ARRESTED

MAN ACCUSED OF KILLING SIX PERSONS IS GIVEN UP TO POLICE BY WIFE.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., May 22.—The South Bend police authorities were informed to-day of the arrest of James Brimmingstall, accused of the murder of six persons near Dowagiac, Mich.

Brimmingstall has already confessed to the murder of two persons, according to the police, and they further say they will have no difficulty in fastening the other crimes upon him.

The arrest was brought about by Brimmingstall's wife, who voluntarily told the police that she feared she was to be murdered. She said her husband had determined to kill her because he feared she would tell of his many crimes.

The list of Brimmingstall's victims, according to the officials, is:

Man in Kansas, name not given; killed by Brimmingstall sixteen years ago.

Railroad man in Missouri, name unknown; killed seven years ago.

Two men sleeping in a hotel in Missouri; names unknown.

David Huff, Dowagiac, June, 1907.

Smith Bertium, Dowagiac, February, 1908.

Mrs. Brimmingstall, apparently distracted, appealed to Prosecuting Attorney T. J. Bresnahan for protection. She said that "Jim" was going to kill her. She could not go to sleep for fear he would break into the house and murder her. Jealousy is one of the causes ascribed regarding the break between the Brimmingstalls.

David Huff, an aged citizen of Dowagiac went to Brimmingstall home a few years and a half ago. It is decided them his property on their proposition to support and care for him for the remainder of his life. One night last June Huff was found dead in bed. Brimmingstall told a story of the old man's death. He said Huff had some sort of violent illness and accidentally choked himself to death with the bed clothes. The body of Huff was buried the next day and the apparent haste occasioned some comment.

In February of this year Smith Bertium's body was found frozen into the ice of a nearby stream. His money had disappeared.

COUNCILMAN DOHERTY DEAD

The unexpected death of Councilman Thomas F. Doherty of Ward 2 at his home in East Boston last evening cast a gloom over City Hall to-day. Councilman Doherty was one of the most popular members of the city council, and his determined efforts during his service, which commenced in 1906, to accomplish results for his constituents made him a notable figure in the city government.

Councilman Doherty was born in the North End thirty-four years ago.

Mayor Hibbard to-day issued a call for a special meeting of the Common Council to be held at noon to-morrow, when appropriate action will be taken by the members in honor of their deceased brother. The funeral will be held at Mr. Doherty's late home, No. 102 Webster street, East Boston, on Sunday at 2 o'clock.

FATHER AND SON WHO SLEW HIM BURIED

NEW YORK, May 22.—Double funeral services over the remains of George F. Sterry, the wealthy manufacturer, whose son, George E. Sterry Jr., shot and killed him and then committed suicide, and of the parricide, were held to-day at the elder Sterry's home in West Seventy-fourth street. Miss Rachel Bladen, the young school teacher of East Orange, whose approaching marriage to the elder Sterry caused the tragedy, was not present.

15,000 TRIBAL REBELS MENACE BRITISH ARMY

REBELLION SPREADS; GRAVE ANXIETY FELT FOR GENERAL WILLCOCK'S FORCE.

LONDON, May 22.—The gravest anxiety is felt here for the safety of the forces commanded by General Sir James Willcocks, who are reported to cooperate against Umri-Khili, on the northern frontier of India, where they were sent to put down the rebellion.

Additional troops are to be hurried to the support of General Willcocks at once. Fierce fighting is reported daily, with heavy casualties on both sides.

Not only are the English troops threatened by fierce tribesmen, numbering 12,000 and 15,000, who have been wrought to a high pitch of fury, but the ranks of the army are being rapidly depleted by deadly cholera.

Rebels Lost 200 Men.

The last battle reported was fought on Wednesday at Umri-Khili. The rebels lost more than 200 of their men, but this only caused them to inspire in them more desperate resistance. The natives are fighting every foot of the English advance into their country.

Further fighting has taken place it is known, but as yet the details have not been reported here. It is believed that the engagement on now is a continuation of the Umri-Khili conflict.

The rebellion, it is reported, is spreading rapidly and General Willcocks is facing an exceedingly difficult situation in his efforts to control his native soldiers.

The names of the two English soldiers known to have been killed and the one wounded have not as yet been ascertained. Great anxiety is felt here by friends and relatives of the officers who are known to be with General Willcocks. The twenty-third Sikh soldiers wounded at the same time have been sent from the front back to Peshawur.

Ameer Remains Neutral.

Just how extensive are the gatherings reported in the upper Swat valley, at Laksai and in the vicinity of Ahad Kor, where Sir Sandrharara Sefi, Khawezais and Bajaur tribesmen are reported concentrating heavily, cannot be told until General Willcocks comes in closer contact with the various forces.

From the fact that the Afghans do not seem to be figuring at present in the campaign, it is assumed that the Ameer is making good his promise to remain neutral. There has been no confirmation of the recent rumors of Ameer Habib's assassination, and the story is now discredited.

TROUSSEAU FOR LEITER BRIDE TO COST $6,000

Bought in New York by Miss Williams and Her Mother.

DIRECTOIRE BRIDAL GOWN

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Mrs. John R. Williams and her daughter, Miss Juliette, who is to marry Joseph Leiter June 10, have returned after two weeks' shopping in New York. The trousseau, not yet uncompleted, is said to have cost $6,000. The bridal robe is to be of heavy white satin made in the new Directoire style. Little trimming will distinguish the gown, but draped about the bride's shoulders will be quantities of rare old point lace, once the cherished treasure of her maternal grandmother.

The material for the robe was purchased in New York, but the making will be intrusted to a Washington modiste who received practically all of Miss Williams's clothes for her debutante year. Two gowns are exciting feminine envy. One is a ball gown of old rose satin made on Empire lines, the shimmering surface having for its relief masses of filmy cream-colored lace. The second gown is a pitch-black chiffon. Lingerie gowns abound in profusion. Aside from these, however, Miss Williams has decided to buy nothing until she arrives in Paris, when she will put in a supply of frocks for the London season, when she will make her appearance as the guest of Mr. Leiter's sister, Mrs. Colin Campbell, and the Countess of Suffolk, formerly Miss Marguerite Leiter.

Scarcely less interesting than the frocks are the score of hats, each of which Miss Williams has decided is wear once before she dons them as a bride. One is a huge shape of black and white, trimmed simply with a great bow of chiffon ribbon perched jauntily in the very front of the high crown.

The wedding, which will take place at noon, will be witnessed only by the most intimate friends. Immediately after the service a large reception and wedding breakfast will take place at Rauscher's. Later in the afternoon the bride and bridegroom will set off for Manchester by the Sea, Mrs. Leiter's country place, making the journey by auto. August 20 they will sail for Europe, the return trip being dated for September 20.

LUSITANIA MAKES NEW RECORD; WINS $750,000

CUNARD LINER CLIPS OCEAN TRIP TO 4 DAYS, 19 HOURS AND 17 MINUTES.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, May 22.—The giant Cunard liner Lusitania, which arrived to-day, broke all transatlantic records, making the trip in 4 days 19 hours and 17 minutes. The record of her sister ship, the Mauretania, was 4 days 23 hours and 59 minutes.

The Lusitania's hourly speed at times more than 26 knots, and the extinction of hundreds of passengers was not all that could be heard. The roar of every engine, down to the stokers, who piled more than a thousand tons of coal into her furnaces. All single day's runs were smashed the third day out, when she logged 632 miles, but it is believed that yesterday her performance was still better and that the day's record will show 650 knots.

The Lusitania came over the long course, which is about 2,800 knots, and on her hourly average was more than 25 knots. The first day out she showed a record of 620 knots, the second day 625, then 632 knots. Yesterday's record has not been received.

The big turbiner passed Nantucket Shoals lightship at 6:37 last night at high speed in a smooth sea. Her time may not record that she made over the short course, about 110 miles less than the one she took, 4 days 18 hours and 40 minutes, but it will be pretty close to it. The hourly average then was 24.35 knots. Her record over the longer course has been just five days. The builders of the Lusitania's engines are said to be aboard this trip and have encouraged the engineers' department to get every particle of speed possible out of the liner.

The feat of the Lusitania gives her the assurance of the $750,000 British mail subsidy which she and her sister ship, the Mauretania, will earn when they average 20 knots.

CITY SQUEEZED IN TAKINGS FOR NEW SUBWAYS?

An investigation by the Finance Commission of the charge that the Transit Commission paid excessive prices for several lots of land taken for the building of the Washington street subway is recommended by a special Common Council committee.

The committee thinks that the Finance Commission should probe into these land deals because the latter has held that the city should not pay more than 25 per cent in advance of assessed valuation for realty.

In regard to the building at the north corner of Washington and Bolton streets, taken for a station, the owner wanted $625,000 for the property, basing his price on an annual rent roll of $25,000. The assessed valuation was $167,000. The Transit Commission's expert appraised the property at $240,000. Finally it was agreed to pay him $182,333 for the easement or $15,312.49 more than the assessed valuation of the entire property at the time of taking.

The Common Council committee says the buildings No. 11 Lagrange street and No. 18 Lagrange street are substantially alike, are assessed for the same amount, $21,000. For No. 14 the commission paid $24,000; for No. 18 they paid $34,500. When asked the reason for the difference the frank answer was returned that the owner of No. 14 accepted the offer of the commission of $24,000; the owner of No. 18, on the contrary, vigorously objected, and his protest netted him $10,500.

"For the property Nos. 802-806 Washington street and No. 9 Ash street they paid $65,500, or $23,000 more than half the assessed value, though they took less than half the property and that the back land. The same state of affairs obtains with regard to No. 810 Washington street."

NO CORNER ON N. H. LAKE FISH

The general public has the right to fish on Christine Lake, near the town of Stark, Coos County, New Hampshire, according to the decision rendered by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Action brought by the Percy Summer Club sought to restrain sportsmen from fishing either from the banks of the lake or from boats. Their action was fought by Edward Astle and others and Judge Putnam of the United States Circuit Court sustained the contention that the lake was public property.

ARMY CAPTAIN HAS VANISHED

SAN FRANCISCO, May 22.—Captain Samuel D. McAllister of the Thirty-eighth Company of Coast Artillery has disappeared from his station at the Presidio.

Since Friday morning McAllister's whereabouts has been unknown to his friends. The police department and private detectives have been searching for him in vain. Captain McAllister, who is a young man, has been stationed at the Presidio about three years and has an excellent record. His wife believes he disappeared during a fit of temporary insanity.

Madam, It's Prejudice.

The only reason why you use raw milk is because you don't know these facts.

Please remember that we are not dealing now with condensed milk.

Condensed milk is half sugar. You can't use it for cooking. It can't take the place of the milkman.

Van Camp's is simply rich Holstein milk, with two-thirds the water evaporated.

Nothing is added—no sugar, no starch, no preservative. We preserve by sterilization.

Put the water back and you have exactly what we began with.

Van Camp's comes to you in the shape of thick cream. But it costs only half what cream costs from your milkman.

Add one part water, and you have cream just right for coffee or cereals.

Add two parts water and you have rich milk.

Van Camp's gives a flavor to milk dishes that you never can get without it.

The reason is this:

Van Camp's contains all that belongs to rich milk—all of the butter fat, all of the solids.

Your milkman's milk doesn't.

Butter fat rises, solids fall. Milk from the top of a can differs from that in the middle.

Here, and here only, do you get the whole milk. All the delicious flavor you get from Van Camp's is due to this fact alone.

Another advantage is this:

Van Camp's gives you a cow in your kitchen.

No waste and no shortage. You have fresh milk or cream when you want it.

But this is the main point:

Van Camp's has no germs in it, while raw milk is full of them. That's why it sours.

In raw milk you run all the risk of infected cows, sickly milkmen, uncleanly dairies.

Two-thirds the mortality in children is due to germs in milk.

Our cows and our men are inspected. Our dairies are sanitary in the extreme. Our factories are as clean as your kitchen.

The fact that our sealed cans keep for years without souring proves that Van Camp's has no germs.

But Van Camp's, for drinking, has a slight almond flavor, due to sterilization.

Some like it better than raw milk. Some must acquire the taste.

But raw milk, like raw meat, is unfit. There is grave danger of germ infection.

You should use Van Camp's for drinking, as well as for cooking. And you will when you know.

We have not, for two years, been able to supply even half the demand for this milk.

We publish an excellent cook book, showing the exact cost of all sorts of milk dishes. Please write for it—it's free. Address Van Camp Packing Co., Indianapolis, Ind.

Van Camp's Milk

Prices: 5c and 10c per can, at your grocer's. It is cheaper still by the case of 48 cans. You will buy it in that way when you know it.

DOCTOR GETS RABIES FROM MARSH'S BODY

NEW YORK, May 22.—By a strange freak of fate the hydrophobia germs whose unmistakable presence dramatically condemned to death William M. Marsh, the Brooklyn manufacturer, inoculated another man through Marsh's lifeless body.

Dr. Ira Van Gieson, while performing an autopsy upon the victim's brain to-day, accidentally cut his arm with a scalpel that had just been buried in tissues of Mr. Marsh that were swarming with the deadly bacilli.

In the presence of half a dozen awestricken witnesses the doctor took the most heroic ordinary precautions he knew. Then he hurried to the hospital, the Willard Parker, for the Pasteur treatment. Then, coolly and hopefully, he took up the fateful walk—just as Miss Edna Thompson, Marsh's bookkeeper, and Harry Marsh, the manufacturer's son, are waiting.

With Marsh himself dead without a title (the dog licked his hand!; his son recalling a similar dread caress, Miss Thompson still scarred by a bite, and now Dr. Van Gieson directly inoculated by the knife, it looks as though it were a horribly mistaken kindness that impelled Marsh again at victim to give a home months ago to the waif cur that he named, oddly enough, "Happy."

Dr. Van Gieson, the city's authority on hydrophobia, He manages the city's Pasteur station in the Willard Parker Hospital. Dr. Van Gieson was called to perform the autopsy because Brooklyn officials wanted to learn if Marsh really died of hydrophobia.

SHOT THROUGH HEAD AND KILLED BY SON

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 22.—Leon C. Perez, forty-four years old, a drug clerk, was shot through the head and almost instantly killed by his son, William Perez, at the family home here last night. The son was arrested. He says he shot his father with a rifle to prevent the latter from striking his mother.

If in Doubt, Don't Marry

Girls Should Be Sure of Their Love Before Deciding

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Beatrice Fairfax

WHEN a girl begins to think seriously about a man who is paying her attention, she says to herself: "I wonder if he will always be able to take care of me?"

What she really ought to say is: "I wonder if I will always want him to take care of me?"

A girl can make no greater mistake than to rush into matrimony without giving this question serious consideration.

There are hundreds of women who, after five years of marrying, would choose another man if they had it to do over again.

Of course, there is always the risk of having made a mistake, even after mature deliberation, but naturally the more thought you give the question the less likely you are to be mistaken.

One mistake fascination for love. A girl can imagine herself desperately in love, and get all over it inside of three months.

Must Respect Him

THERE is just this to be remembered, girls—that good clothes and a handsome face don't go one inch toward making a good husband.

If you want to be a happy woman you must respect the man you marry. You must be able to say to your children: "Your father is the best man in the world.

"Don't be a little goose and throw yourself away on a good-looking dummy. Marry a real man.

I do not believe in love at first sight. There can be a strong feeling of attraction, but you cannot really love a man until you know his qualities.

Unless you feel that you can thoroughly trust a man, do not listen to his love making.

If he urges you to deceive your mother and to meet him secretly, be a bad man.

The right kind of man will go about his love-making in an open, manly way, and will be only too eager to know your people.

I do not believe in long engagements, but, on the other hand, it is a mistake to marry too soon after you become engaged.

Six months or a year is the average length of time for an engagement, and it gives the young people a chance to grow to know each other at least moderately well.

Avoid Mistake

IF after becoming engaged you find that you have made a mistake, it is far better to break the engagement than to marry a man whom you do not love.

Breaking an engagement, however, is not pleasant, and for that reason I advise you to be as sure of yourself as possible before you promise yourself to a man.

It is very rarely that a girl is taken by surprise when a man proposes to her. When you have reason to believe that a man is going to ask you to marry him, try to make up your mind beforehand as to what your answer shall be.

Think it over from every point of view, and if you feel that you sincerely love and respect him, and that you will always do so, accept him.

But if you have a shadow of doubt, wait until you are sure of yourself. There can be no greater misery than to marry a man whom you do not love.

Points for the Spring Bride

THE bride of this Spring will not stemmed flowers, then mass them in a low stand under the time-honored bowl, on or a flat plateau, so that conversation over them will not be interfered with.

marriage bell, but under a canopy of Southern smilax and tulle.

The canopy will be gracefully draped with garlands of flowers, the favorite decoration being long ropes of lilies of the valley.

In decorating your rooms, you should always take into consideration the color scheme of each, so that the tints of the flowers will not clash with the coloring of the wall paper, etc. For this reason, many people nowadays will have floral decorations of one color generally consisting of one flower, in one room, another color in the next, and so on, with the result that there is a pink room, a pink and green room, a yellow daffodil room, a lilac hydrangea room, and so forth.

Remember when decorating the tables for the wedding breakfast or supper to bear in mind the comfort of the guests. If you use tall flowers with long stems, put them in high vases so that the guests can see underneath; but if you use short

The Paris Babette—Little Sport

"DAME FASHION" is toiling up there in her high place, laughing aloud and shaken with riotous mirth at the wail that is rising up over this "scandalous" thing she has made for the Lady Folk of the earth to wear.

There is no deep, dark deviltishness in this wondrous Power, Madame called Fashion. There is only a mad passion to tickle and tease, and make one's money to slip away, and shock and fascinate the hearts of the Lady Folk so that they tuck their heads on one side and cuddle their clasped fingers under their white chins and catch a deep sigh for the new thing that any Babette of Paris is trailing around, like the little sport she is!

And now Madame has made, and hung out for us to look upon, a new thing, after tangling us all up trying to figure out the hats she has sent upon us, and getting a swirl on our pen point so that we may put them upon white paper.

"It's the 'sheath skirt.'"

And Madame is up there on the high place, lying back, exhausted with mirth, clapping her turned-down finger tips and shrieking "Oh, it is a howling!"

For the wail that delights her soul is going up, and there are Men Folk and Lady Folk, perched each on their little stump, shouting their little shout.

And mostly the folk on the stumps are Men Folk. And they are cold.

The sheath skirt, as it is in Paris, is not yet here. But I have seen swingingly thicknesses of sheets about it. And it is surely a thing of wonder and beauty, too, surely—for artists have made it, and beautiful women are wearing it.

It is no more frightful and awful than the dress of fair women in the Other Ages, a very long time ago, when our Gentle Perfect Man was here in the world—before him and after him.

We have built other ways, and thoughts, and manners of dress, around us, and this manner of dress is not of us; and so we lift shocked palms and turn our eyes up and send up our little wail.

The artist thinks of no other thing but beauty, and of course I see that and nothing else in it; and so to me there is nothing in this thing that is rousing folks up to a shouting that is not good, sane that it is a graceful, uncomplicated, ultimest impossible, because of the surroundings of

It looks best on the greyhound Betty street and modern house that lie around the Lady of Now!

This gown of soft silken and satin and veilike things is most wonderfully and awfully cut, over the perfect, glove-smooth stays that grip my Lady Babette under it; and it has secret strips of ribbon sewed into loops at the hem, and my lady must poke her little pumps into these, so that at every step her circled ankle will draw the skirt close about her feet.

Always it hugs her feet! And surely one would grow weary with that!

And for the second thing. These things that are like the dress of Other Days, that trail and float and lie close to the body, need old gardens and green turf and endless and timeless and beauty—the men, the life, and the way of living, of the other days.

This way of dust and grime and busy, colorless clothed men is not for them. They are in the wrong surroundings.

But for the rest—bah. If one is clean minded one sees nothing anywhere but beauty, and this sheath skirt, as we have it here already, is a thing of beauty and makes a dandy "pic."

Besides, it's simple; and aren't you hoarsers always shouting for simplicity?

It has two seams, and no plait or trimming. No! And it makes a bully walking skirt. For it has to be neither caught in to your feet nor creeping along on the ground.

But, then, I forgot. That isn't the part that is making the shocked ones shriek. It's the simplicity and the beauty of it. Oh, dear!

But there's a funny thing. It's the poor, dear, very, very fat ladies—and there are such heaps of them—and oh, Angelicus, you will like right down and wag one home and I'm with the ones on the stumps then!

For you will neither be shocking nor wonderful. You will be funny. And you, too, will make a dandy "pic."

The greyhound Betty is the Betty for Greek pink-striped frocks and shiny, gripping, sheath skirts. One can see. The fat lady is like an Indian club trying to stand upside down on its knob in the skirt tied in at the ankles, what with the whooping hats to help.

The sheath skirt is a beauty; but it isn't for that Angelicus!

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

AN OFFICIOUS YOUNG MAN

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

One evening I offered to escort a young lady to her home. My offer was accepted and we proceeded to the car. On doing so a young man, whom the lady knew better than she did me, came up and said, "I don't think you'll be lonely, M——," upon which I made both parties good night and left. What I wish to know is, whether I had acted properly and if so, how I should have acted. And I would also like to know if it wasn't the duty of the young lady to tell the gentleman who came up that she already had an escort?

F. K. L.

YOU were all three to blame. The girl should have told the man that she had accepted you as an escort, and you should have told him that you intended seeing her home. On the other man's part, it was most officious to intrude.

NO ACTUAL RULE

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

We are three girls contemplating a trip to Washington. A says that at all nice hotels ladies should wear their hats at the table at each meal. B says that when ladies are stopping at the hotel they should not wear their hats to the table. Will you kindly tell me the custom and which is correct in her statement.

THREE CONSTANT READERS.

THERE is no actual rule regarding such matters, but it is customary for women to wear their hats when dining in public. I have seen women dining in hotels without their hats, but the well-dressed woman is usually apparelled in her hat on in public, unless she is wearing evening dress.

Unbleached Muslin

THE possibilities of unbleached muslin are not appreciated. This cheap material is of a mellow, creamy tone which lends itself peculiarly to artistic decoration. For Summer cottage hangings it is a most desirable material, the unevenness of weave suggesting certain silken fabrics. A pretty bedroom in a Summer cottage had the walls papered with delicate pink and yellow rose vines upon a creamy ground, while all the hangings—the window curtains—were of unbleached muslin finished with bands of cretonne to match the wall paper. The room was charming.

Expert Hints on Beauty

BY THE PROFESSOR

TWO REQUESTS

DEAR PROFESSOR:

Will you be so kind as to tell me the best treatment for proud flesh grown over the eye, and for a blackhead that I cannot get out? I am hard between the skin and the flesh?

ANXIOUS.

I DO not recognize the ailment which you describe in regard to the eye, but in any case you should consult an oculist, for it is not safe to trifle with the eye. For the blackhead a simple and enlarged pore filled up you can get rid of its contents by opening up the pore by a towel wet with hot water, and then to it for some time. Then squeeze out the accumulated matter by means of a comedo extractor and bathe in peroxide, afterward putting on a little cold cream to soothe any irritation that may obtain. If you are not sure as to its nature have it examined by a physician.

MAKE FACE FAT

DEAR PROFESSOR:

Kindly inform me how to fatten my face. It is very thin and would like very much to have it nice and round.

L.

MASSAGE the face well morning and night with the orange flower skin food by a gentle rotary motion, after having opened the pores by the application of a towel with hot water. Then rub the cream gently, in order to bring the blood to the surface to absorb the skin food. After massaging for the first few minutes rub off the surplus cream with a piece of old soft linen or cheesecloth rag; then dash with cold water, into which you have placed a few drops of tincture of benzoin. Make the skin food as follows: Melt in a double boiler four ounces of oil of sweet almonds, six drams each of white wax and spermaceti. To one and a half ounces of glycerine and two ounces of orange flower water add two drams of borax and allow it to dissolve. Pour this mixture slowly into the blended fats, beating vigorously all the time. Before it gets cold add fifteen drops each of oil of neroli, oil of bigarde and oil of petit grain. When nearly cold pour into jars.

The Magic of Real Love

It Can Polish the Rough-Diamond Man, if Genuine

By DOROTHY DIX

Dorothy Dix.

A YOUNG woman who is well educated and refined has fallen in love with a man who is big and strong and capable and kind, but who has had little advantages of schooling or society, and she asks my advice about whether she should marry him or not—whether the rough diamond or the fine gold will wear well into the making of a happy marriage ring.

The girl says in her letter that the man has all the attributes that make up a character of sterling worth, but that his grammar is faulty, that he eats peas with his knife, and is ignorant of many of the little niceties of convention that are second nature to those who have been born or fortunately attained in the days when manners are formed.

Of course if this were an episode in a novel this question would never be raised. The high-born heroine would elope with the lowly hero and be perfectly happy ever after, but being a transcript from real life, the problem is not so easily solved.

Undoubtedly there are few pills so bitter for a woman to swallow as the fact that she cannot boastfully flaunt her husband before her friends with an air that says to a effect, "See what I have got!"

It is an agony to her to have to blush for his ignorance, to cry over up his blunders; to attempt to conceal his ignorance.

There are bound to be times under such circumstances when she is not even consoled by her knowledge of his inner nobility, and when it will seem to her that it doesn't make any difference if his heart is all right, when his grammar is all wrong.

Be Sure of Love

NEVERTHELESS, I say to the girl who is in love with the rough diamond man:

Marry him if you love him enough, and he loves you enough; but be sure first that you have an unlimited quantity of double-distilled love. The ordinary amount of milk and water affection won't be sufficient to carry either one of you through the ordeal of getting adjusted to each other.

You are justified in getting married in the first place, because rough diamonds are very valuable articles. Culture and polish are, without doubt, very desirable things for a man to possess, but there are lots of things that are better.

Colleges don't always turn out real men, and the blacksmith's anvil and the carpenter's bench sometimes do.

A knowledge of how to tie a necktie and hand a lady in to dinner does not of itself make a man a gentleman. That a man's nails are manicured does not make it always safe for a woman to put her happiness into his hands.

On the contrary, there are men with are full of splendid forces and virility who have never seen a college door, but who have had a real education between their hard days of labor.

There are men who are uncouth as to appearance who are as chivalrous and tender as any knight of old.

There are men whose callous palms grow as light as a baby's when they touch the woman they love, and to whom any woman may entrust her life with the absolute certainty that it will be kept as in the strong arms and a faithful heart can guard it.

Can Be Polished

A WOMAN is justified in marrying a rough diamond, in the second place, because a rough diamond is susceptible of taking on the most brilliant polish.

We have had one President of the United States whose wife taught him to read after they were married, and there are about as innumerable other men, filling all sorts of places of honor and profit, who had no earlier advantages of education or association.

Some of these men are Beau Brummels in manners and dress, and epicures at the table, and yet only a few years ago they were carrying cornstalk and jumpers and carrying their dinners in tin pails.

It is much easier for a man to acquire at least a superficial polish than it is for a woman. More than this, the almost universal rule in this country is that as soon as a man is married he goes to his wife's level, instead of she to his; and so the woman who is marrying a man a little below her socially needs to think over for just what she will soon be able to wear off his rough edge so that he will fit smoothly into her groove.

This rarely, if ever, fails. The mere fact that the man falls in love with a woman who is more cultured and accomplished than he is shows that he has an innate refinement that makes him long for something better than he has known.

He is ambitious to rise, and just because he looks upon his wife as mentor and guide, he cherishes her with a reverence that no other woman ever gets, and that is the very finest perfume of the cup of love.

Love Is Magic

BUT no one can deny that there is great danger, both for the husband and the wife in this arrangement. There is danger that the wife will give herself airs of superiority, and that she may some time even be guilty of the vulgarity of throwing up to the husband that she condescended when she married him.

No man ever forgave that. Therefore no woman has a right to marry a rough diamond with the intention of educating him after marriage.

She must begin before, and be content with him with infinite tact and forebearance, and above all unless she feels that his great love for her will be a sufficient support to her than his table manners, and that he falls in his strength and ability more than counterbalances any mortification she may feel at present at his manner of speech.

The rough diamond man should not marry the fine gold woman unless he feels that she can look up to him and not down, and that he can hear without irritation having his little shortcomings gently pointed out to him.

If he feels himself a man who must play the Grand Turk to every girl he kiss marry, a woman who knows less than he does, and who will not find fault every time he assert notes his mother tongue.

But love is the magic that straightens out these tangled matters. It is love that makes even the most ambitious little shaver capable of polishing the human rough diamond into a brilliant that has more than once lightened the world.

POLICE FIND 12,800 SHARES BAY STATE GAS

In the possession of Hedley J. Gardner, who was arrested to-day in Providence, R. I., the Providence police found 12,800 stock certificates of the Bay State Gas Company, which were stolen Tuesday from the South station.

Gardner refused to tell how he got possession of them.

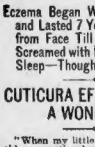
H. Driver of No. 53 State street, employed by the American Trust Company as transfer clerk, reported to the police Tuesday that the certificates, bag and all, had been stolen from the station, and he asked that search be made for them.

No clew could be found. Chief Watts this morning received word from Providence of the arrest of Gardner, and inspectors will be sent after him this afternoon.

BOY SCRATCHED DAY AND NIGHT

Eczema Began When a Tiny Baby and Lasted 7 Years—Tore Crusts from Face Till It was All Raw—Screamed with Pain and Could not Sleep—Though Specialists Failed

CUTICURA EFFECTED A WONDERFUL CURE



"When my little boy was six weeks old an eruption broke out on his face. I took him to a doctor and got ointments and medicines but his face kept on getting worse until it got so bad that no one could look at him. His whole face was one crust and must have been very painful. He scratched day and night until his face sometimes looked like a raw piece of meat. I was nearly frantic with his scratching day and night. Then I took him to all the best specialists in skin diseases but they could not do much for him. He sometimes screamed with pain when I put on the salve they gave me.

"When he was two years old the eczema got on his arms and legs so that I had to keep them bandaged up and I made gloves for his hands as his nails could not poison him worse. We could not get a night's sleep in months and my husband and I were all broken up. Then my mother asked why I did not give up the doctors and try Cuticura. So I got a set and he felt relieved the first time I used them, the Cuticura Ointment felt so cool. He used to wake up and ask for Cuticura to be put on when he itched so badly that he could not sleep, and he would say, 'Oh! Mama, that makes my sores feel so good!' I gave the Cuticura Remedies a good trial and gradually the eczema healed all up and now he is as well as any other children. He is now seven years old and the cure has lasted two months, so I think it will never return. I can't tell you how glad I am that Cuticura did such wonderful work in our case and I shall recommend it everywhere. Mrs. John G. Klumpp, 80 Niagara St., Newark, N. J., Oct. 17 and 22, 1907."

A cake set of Cuticura Remedies, consisting of Cuticura Soap (25c.), Ointment (50c.), and Resolvent (50c.), or Pills (50c. per vial of 60), is often sufficient to cure. Sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., Boston, Mass.

No Rosin in It

Nothing but high grade soap and naphtha in P. & G. Naphtha Soap.

The first thing you notice, when you unwrap a cake of P. & G. Naphtha Soap is the color of it—white.

That shows there is no rosin in it.

Most naphtha soaps are yellow—they contain rosin.

There is a saying among soap manufacturers to the effect that 5 per cent. rosin in soap is all right; more than 5 per cent. is all wrong.

Some naphtha soaps contain as much as 25% rosin. Do you know why? Rosin is cheap. That is why.

And so we offer this advice: Never buy any other than a white naphtha soap.

P. & G. Naphtha Soap is white—there is no rosin in it.

ORDER WIDOW TO STOP SALE MADE LONG AGO

Court wants $125 ring woman took for $5 loan and sold to support her children

Mrs. Margaret Frazer, boarding house mistress, who is puzzled over return of man she thought dead to reclaim ring he gave her for loan.

If you were a widow and you had loaned $5 to a married man two days after you had met for the first time at a lodge social, and you had accepted his $125 diamond ring as security for the loan—

What would you do if you found yourself, two years afterward, restrained by a court order from disposing of the ring when you had already sold it, the owner never having appeared with the "five spot" necessary for its redemption?

Wouldn't it make you mad?

And—

Were you a peaceable and law-abiding lodging house proprietress, struggling for a living for yourself and several children, you'd quickly conclude, in the face of the circumstances, that hereafter it would be better to stick firmly to the lodging house and give the pawn-broking business the "go-by," wouldn't you?

Ask Mrs. Margaret Fraser of No. 53 Beacon street, Chelsea, about it, and hear what she has to say.

He Wanted $5, She Had It.

Mrs. Fraser and Arthur G. Stewart, who formerly lived at No. 205 Chestnut street, Chelsea, were neighbors and belonged to the same organization in Chelsea, but never knew each other until the night of the social, two years ago, when a mutual friend introduced them.

They ate ice cream and cake together that evening and when the party broke up Stewart was invited by Mrs. Fraser to call.

By some strange coincidence neither party attempts to explain it—the evening Stewart paid his call upon the Widow Fraser, Stewart happened to be badly in need of $5 and the Widow Fraser happened to have just $5 to spare.

Stewart, therefore, had little trouble negotiating a loan. He gave his ring as security.

"Of course," says Mrs. Fraser, "it wasn't that I wanted security, but he just offered the ring and I took it."

Sold Ring to Buy Coal.

That was the last Mrs. Fraser saw of Mr. Stewart for nearly two years. She gave him up a short time ago as dead. The coal bin was empty and a ton of coal in the cellar, Mrs. Fraser thought, would look better than a man's diamond ring on his middle finger, especially with another cold Winter coming on.

So Mrs. Fraser sold the ring. The purchaser, she says, was a Chelsea fire victim, now removed to Canada. She doesn't remember the man's name. Nor does she know what city in Canada he moved to. She bought coal with the ring and never saw Stewart has reappeared and wants the ring.

Injunction proceedings have been instituted and to-day the perplexed Widow Fraser finds herself restrained by a court order from disposing of something she hasn't got. It's enough to make any poor woman mad, Mrs. Fraser says.

The Story of the Sale.

"Mr. dealings," said Mrs. Fraser to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter, "are with one landlord, one minister, one grocer and one doctor. And that's all. They all know me and can vouch for my honesty. I am perplexed, that's true, but I do not fear any action on the part of Mr. Stewart.

"The ring was left here more than two years ago. I did not expect to charge any interest on the loan—I just wanted to help Stewart out, as he said he needed the money badly.

"Being alone in the world, and having several children to support, and having had many vacant rooms on my hands all Winter, I waited for Mr. Stewart to pay the loan as long as I could.

"I needed coal, I needed groceries. I had doctor's bills to pay. I wasn't a pawnbroker. I sold the ring last March and that's all there is to it. I'm sorry, but I don't see how I can be blamed."

EAGLES HONOR LEAGUE LEADER AT BIG DINNER

Thomas L. Hisgen Given Royal Reception by Members of Springfield Aerie.

SPRINGFIELD, May 22.—The seventh annual banquet of Springfield Aerie of Eagles at Hotel Russell last evening was attended by 300 members and guests, while fully fifty others were disappointed in not getting the tickets.

Jeremiah F. O'Keefe, P. G. of Aerie, was toastmaster, and the programme included a number of brilliant speakers, opening with an address by Mayor W. E. Sanderson and concluding with one by Thomas L. Hisgen, about whom a Springfield banquet is not complete, since his great success politically and his successive fights against the Standard Oil Trust has brought him into prominence.

As it was nearly 1 o'clock when Mr. Hisgen was called upon, he made a brief speech. He punctuated it with several clever stories and it proved one of the hits of the evening.

When introduced he was cheered to the echo. Mr. Hisgen said in part:

"I am always heartily glad to praise the great American bird—the eagle. A bird not only the emblem of your society but represents the great and glorious nation of the United States—the greatest of all the nations in the world.

"Although the eagle is undoubtedly great yet it has one rival—the stork. A bird which certainly delivers the goods.

In closing Mr. Hisgen said:

"This city, this State and this nation need such orders as the Eagles, the purpose of which is the uplifting of humanity. I pray that this magnificent Eagle may spread its wings from Maine to California and take the message into the hearts of mankind."

Mr. Hisgen said he was not allowed 50 days from home after midnight and so is now growing afraid because of the lateness of the hour he would call a halt. He did not touch on politics during his speech.

AMATEURS WIN STAGE SUCCESS

"On a par with a professional production," was the verdict of those who attended the presentation of Henry V. Redmond's "When We Were Twenty-One" by the Dramatic Club of the Gilchrist Store Benefit Association at Jordan Hall last evening. The high quality of the acting and the painstaking care of the performers showed that the club was thoroughly justified in presenting this somewhat ambitious production.

The cast was headed by H. B. Lowe as Richard Carewe and Miss Mae Leach as Phyllis Erickson. Both did exceptionally clever work in their roles.

H. J. Knowlton as the limp acquitted himself with credit. The other parts, which were all well sustained, were taken by C. William Stiles, H. P. Leighton, J. W. Meads, L. L. Healey, G. L. Wentworth, Mary A. Sullivan, Bertha Campbell, who in the trying role of Kate gave excellent impression, Sadie Graves and Margaret Langille.

By A. H. C. MITCHELL.

Mr. James McAleer, whom we all used to call Jimmie, when he was the swiftest outfielder playing ball is very well satisfied with the way the St. Louis Browns are going. After some startling mid-winter efforts on his team he put a club in the field this season that is more than holding its own with the other teams of the American League. This is something more than any previous St. Louis club has done for many years.

McAleer looks decidedly different from the way he looked when he was burning up the ground chasing fly balls. He is somewhat foggy in appearance and it is doubtful if he could cover 100 yards in less than sixteen seconds—maybe he couldn't run that far.

He was playing pinochle with Jack O'Connor, the old catcher, when the writer bearded him in his lair this morning. Between melds McAleer talked about his team.

Howell Winning Twirler.

"Yes," we are going along quite well just now; that is, everybody is playing consistently except the pitchers. Howell has been our most consistent performer and he has pitched one for games. Jack Powell is just coming round and I expect he will be ready soon to take his regular turn in the box.

"I want to tell you that we have developed a star infielder in Hobe Ferris, your old Boston player. Lots of people thought Hobe would never make good at third, but I was to say he is playing a great game there. Hustle and hard grounders are the same to him and his arm is all to the good.

"We have several young players with the team on this trip, among them is Criss, a Texas pitcher when I have had my eye on for some time. Last year I let him play with St. Paul. He hasn't much control, but he has everything else on the calendar and he can hit like all possessed.

Thinks Graham a Comer.

"Another new man is Graham, a left-hander, who will probably pitch one of the games here. I think very highly of him. Schmitzer plays in the outfield when ever a left-handed pitcher opposes us. Hoffman not being ready to go against Schmitzer comes from Newark, Ohio."

There are seventeen players, including Jack O'Connor, with the team. Manager McAleer's brother Tom is traveling with the team and there are also Secretary Hickard and Train Quirk.

CURB BROKERS IN BIG GAME TO-MORROW

That interest is at fever heat over the boker game which takes place this afternoon at the Satuel League Grounds is evident by the fact that the entire number of tickets which have been issued have been eagerly gobbled up. The local curb brokers are in fine best of shape and are wielding the mallow in good style, while their feeling is of the best-cigar order. The New York contingent will arrive here Friday night accommanied with a bunch of rooters and as big noise band. Thousands of dollas has already been waged on the outcome of the contest and the rivalry while friendly is enough to make both teams exiest themselves to the limit in order to secure a win.

Ed. Harris and Fred Cronin will be in the points for the Hub favorers, while Horgan and Horgan, the celebrated Irish-German combination, will officiate for the Gotham fliers. After the game these teams will proceed to the American League, where a banquet will be tendered to the New Yorkers by the Boston Curb and several prominent artists are down on the boards to entertain the financiers.

JIMMY B RIGGS HOLDS H IS OWN

BRIDGEPORT, May 22.—Jimmy Briggs certainly held his own in the ten-round bout here last night with Willie Fitzgerald. Briggs was always there aggressor and his defense proved puzzling to the Brooklyn boy. Briggs came near being stopped in the second with a tremendous left to the heart. In the final round, during a clinch, Fitz suddenly threw up his hands, claiming Briggs fouled him. Referee Dave Fitzger ald would not allow this claim.

WANT GAME TO-MORROW.

The Chesters of Roxbury would like to arrange a game with acceptable strong amateur team for to-morrow afternoon. Telephone Roxbury 205, Mr. Semples, between 7 and 8.

SCROGGS WINS EASILY.

NEW YORK, May 22.—Harry Scroggs gave Harry Ferns the beating of his life at the Long Acre Club and won a six-round fight in grand style.

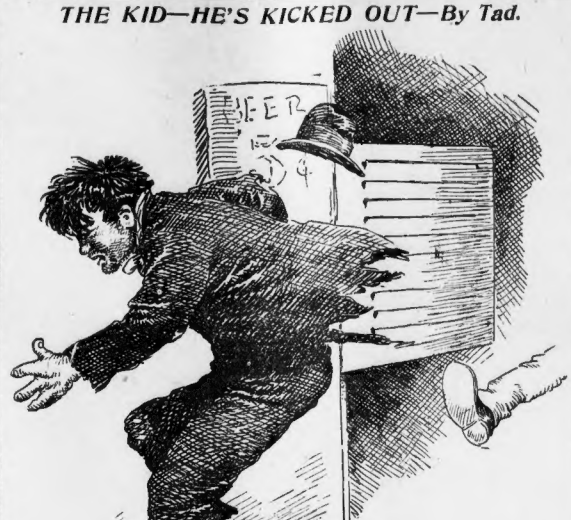
THE KID—HE'S KICKED OUT—By Tad.



LIFE OF A FIGHTER, IN TEN CHAPTERS

By TAD.

CHAPTER IX.

Day after day the Kid continued to keep around the corner. When he was champion of the world he trained in the cellar of that saloon. He showed him a big card for the place and helped promised then. The saloonkeeper took him in hand and made thousands of dollars with him. The Kid was a prizes at that time. His presence in the saloon meant hundreds of dollars to the boss. He

DRIVER HAYNES PAYS HUB A VISIT

BY J. C. KERRISON.

John Haynes, who was one of the drivers in the last Vanderbilt cup race and more recently with the Dragon Automobile Company, is spending a few days in this city as the guest of Charles A. Henshaw. Mr. Haynes is still decidedly interested in events automobilia and will unquestionably be heard from in some of the future contests. Yesterday he took a trip over the course of the Lowell road race and at the end of the trip expressed himself as well pleased with the course, saying it is one of the best he has ever driven on.

With the closing of the entries for Readville on Tuesday next will come a positive announcement of the men and cars entered. It will then be seen that the race committee of the Bay State Association has done a great amount of hard, efficient work and that although more or less handicapped by the numerous meets manipulated in this section of the country, to secure the presence here of the leaders on the motor track of this country.

* * *

The first entry for the Dead Horse hill climb, Saturday, June 6, was received by Arthur G. Dodge, secretary of the hill-climb committee, yesterday. It came from the Central Automobile Exchange, Providence, and the car entered is a Buick steamer, Leo I. Kenfield is a Rhode Island boy, after the Baldwin has been selected to enter the car, which is entered for the free-for-all class event No. 7, the only one open for steamers.

* * *

Baldwin has driven in the hill climbs in Worcester before, and during the Winter competed in the races at Ormond Beach. He has driven in nearly all of the big races.

Jefferson De Mont Thompson of the A. A. A. racing board says that the rules governing the contest for the Vanderbilt cup were thoroughly discussed two months ago, but he will lay the protest of the French club before the board at a meeting on June 29. He, however, fails to see how any change in the present rules can be brought about.

Harry S. Houpt is quite enthusiastic over the proposed bill of Representative Talbot of Maryland, which is now before the House of Representatives. Said Mr. Houpt, in discussing the bill, which is a petition from the automobile clubs of Maryland for the passage of an act by Congress creating, arming and disciplining a body to be known as "the volunteers of aerial" throughout the country as part of the regularly organized militia ...the several states.

"The work of the Thomas entry in the New York to Paris race across the country in the Winter and through the worst kind of conditions proves that the motor car has a great future before it in army work, and I know of no more severer tests that could be indulged in than those that confronted the Thomas entry in the race now going on.

Continuing, Mr. Houpt said: 'The petition declares that 'it having been clearly demonstrated, both in this country and abroad, that the automobile is particularly adapted to the requirements of military service, it is deemed desirable that the capabilities of the automobile for such service be more thoroughly investigated.'

The latest addition to the mechanical equipment of the Wayne factory at Detroit is one of the most modern and complete pattern rooms that it is possible to conceive.

This addition is in the forward part of the new building, and it is electrically driven by a special motor set up for the operating of this one department alone.

Five or six of the new machines, including band saws, planers, bench saws and other woodworking instruments, are already in place, and work is progressing now on the shafting and power distribution.

M'CONNELL MAKES GAIN IN BASEBALL CONTEST

It was McConnell and Carisio who were the particularly bright stars in the last coupons in the BOSTON AMERICAN Baseball Contest for the most popular professional and amateur player, the former receiving upward of a couple of thousand votes, while in a single package Carisio had in his coupons 200, which now gives him quite an advantage over his closest rival in the amateur standing.

By his big vote McConnell went into fourth position in the professional ranks and compelled Criger to drop back one place to fifth, though only fourteen coupons separate the two. The friends of Brodie, Brophy and Curran were noticeable by their absence, it being likely, however, that they are busily collecting coupons for a radical raid for their respective favorites in a few days. Cogan was another who was left in the lurch in the latest mails, but he went so fast for a short time that a let-up might have been expected while his supporters got their second wind. Following is the standing of the contestants.

GALVIN ACCEPTS PARDELLO'S DEFI

Leo Pardello, not satisfied with the outcome of his struggle with James Galvin on the mat of the Columbia on Wednesday night, has extended a return match by issuing a defi to Galvin. The Irishman accepted the challenge and it is expected that a meeting of the two will again clash at the Columbia on Wednesday night, a battle royal will be sure to result. Galvin put up an excellent exhibition against Pat Ireland the other night and clearly demonstrated his claims to be considered as one of the very best. Although Wednesday night's bout resulted in a draw, Galvin feels confident of making the Italian bite the dust in their encounter tomorrow night.

YOUNG ERNE HAS DONE BETTER IN RING THAN QUILL

If Tommy Quill is going to be a real champion it will come to the surface next Tuesday night when he boxes Young Erne at the Armory Club.

The Quaker is a classy boxer, has no superior in his class, not excepting the best, and a victory for Quill would be the biggest feather in his hat.

Fast as a flash with his hands and his feet, game to the core, and with a punch that has sent many an aspiring pugilist to the "has been" class, Erne impresses the onlooker as one of the best boxing machines that has been produced in this country in some years.

He is especially anxious to get a chance against Quill, for since they met the last time, in a six-round affair at Philadelphia, Erne was not in the best of condition and he felt he held his own against the Brockton boxer.

Erne is particularly sore on Quill because after that bout Tommy always claimed to have had the best of it, and the Philadelphian says that he will see that the victory next Tuesday night is beyond all or no future argument.

The lads are equally matched regarding height, weight and reach. There is no question but Erne is the more experienced, while Quill is the stronger of the pair.

NEW LEAGUE HAS DISBANDED

The Atlantic Baseball Association has been disbanded. Yesterday Portland refused to leave Maine for its scheduled game and Lewiston also refused at home. Pawtucket on Wednesday night voted to withdraw.

Lewiston will join a Maine State League and Portland will probably go with it. Pawtucket, Attleboro, Newport and Taunton, with Woonsocket and some other town in that neighborhood, may form a southern New England or a Massachusetts-Rhode Island Circuit.

PIANOS AND ORGANS.

Fire Losses on Pianos

A slight blistering of the cases by the heat is quickly remedied—a thorough scraping and rubbing down and revarnishing in our repair dept. makes the piano as good as new—a thorough inspection of all the parts, and then our expert tuner completes the job—then the beautiful piano is sent to our sacrifice floor and the economical buyer gets a fine instrument for almost nothing. All makes have been coming in—the best pianos in the world—and are sacrificed at once.

Those Rhymes So Hard to Find

Many Readers Think They Have Found Them

Copyright, 1908, by American Journal-Examiner

The suggestion in this column that time could be wasted amusingly in trying to find rhymes with the words month, wolf, silver, chimney and window has brought enough answers to justify our belief that the rhyming instinct is very general, although the poetic instinct may not be.

One reader has discovered an excellent rhyme for window—so good a rhyme that it is sad that Byron couldn't have discovered it before he imperilled his soul swearing at a language that had no such rhyme.

He sends us an advertisement of a lost dog named "Lindo."

The rest is easy. Byron might have written that famous quotation from "Don Juan" thus:

"'Tis sweet to hear the bark of honest Lindo Bay deep mouthed welcome from his kennel window."

A young woman of Brooklyn, too modest to sign her name, tried this experiment with silver:

"And Cupid from his dainty quiver
Drew forth an arrow of pure silver."

That would be a good rhyme if we could spell quiver "quilver," but until the President retires from office and has time still further to reform the spelling of the language, we cannot do that.

Lewis Carroll, the English clergyman and professor of mathematics, who wrote "Alice in Wonderland," when he lacked a rhyme for silver invented an animal and named it the dilver. But Lewis Carroll also wrote the poem beginning, "'Twas brillig and the slithy toves did gyre and gimble in the wabe," which was quite as remarkable as "The Wine of Wizardry," proving that he had unusual talents as a poet.

Other of our correspondents have suggested "overflow" as a rhyme for window; "aloof" for "wolf," "shiver" for "silver," "sloth" for "month" and "hackney" for "chimney," but the most indulgent clerk of a poetical court would not grant a license to that kind of rhymesters.

If you feel that you MUST find rhymes for any or all of the words we have given, you might follow the example of the ingenious poet who MADE rhymes. When he wanted a rhyme for month, this is what he wrote:

The seventeenth day of the month
Young Dan O'Brien took the gun that long had lain upon the window
And shot a cat. The cat he skinned oh!

Or try to follow the example of Jean Lewis de Esque, who, having read our editorial, wrote for us the following:

"A NIGHT ON THE NILE."

From the shores of the Nile saw I a distant chimney
Tow'ring above a castle's highest apex, tho' the month
—'Twas March—was swathed in mists of gray and silver;
(When as the burdensome cry of a solitary bivouacking wolf Caused the waterfowls to drop in haste the salubrious bimny)
A mournful cadence of the wind reft the air as the helobious stunth,
Made gnarly by the paladous land, seem'd to wraw and pilfer
The very atmosphere as, 'neath the agate bed of water a roaming oolf
Foraged in the grass. And, as at the castles' undraped window
Appear'd a woman's head, there loomed to view Love's chosen beau.

But even though you make a few rhymes of your own, you will never find any PERFECT rhymes to any of the words we have quoted, and if you ever expect to become a poet you will do much better to continue to hunt for rhymes for "love"—a subject on which many great poems are yet to be written.

P. S.—This editorial was written by a poet—not by the usual writer of this column. He is a modest poet and doesn't want his name printed.

In North China—Six Hundred and Five Thousand Million Tons of Coal

Will That Be Enough? Probably

Copyright, 1908, by American Journal-Examiner

The United States Geological Survey estimates that there are six hundred and five thousand million tons of coal in North China. In China the coal has been undisturbed for a long time, for two reasons: The Chinese do not care to dig in the ground much, first because they don't want to disturb the Earth Dragon, a terrible monster occupying about the same place in foolish Chinese superstition as our devil with horns and hoofs; and, second, because the Chinese do not want to disturb and disgrace the spirits of their ancestors—all buried in the ground.

In spite of the Earth Dragon and the ancestors, the Chinese are now beginning to dig coal, and our engineers are interested to know how much they have got.

The interesting question is: Will the six hundred and five thousand million tons of coal be enough for China, AND FOR HOW LONG WILL THAT AMOUNT OF COAL SUFFICE?

Various countries indulge in such speculations. It is safe to say that the speculations are foolish.

Coal is only important as a provider of heat. Long before the coal and petroleum and the natural gas shall have been exhausted human beings will have gone far beyond the coal-using stage. A fire of coal will seem as funny to them then as a little fire of twigs and leaves would seem in a big, first-class apartment house now.

There was a time when all the heavy work of the world was done by oxen and horses. In those days some solemn person would have said: "There are in China so many oxen and so many horses. The grazing lands will permit the breeding of so many more. Will they be enough to do the work of China, and for how long, with its increasing population?"

Now the oxen and the horses, so far as physical work goes, are of little importance. Steam used to do the work; electricity now does it. One little waterfall, its energy turned into electric power, can do more work than a thousand oxen.

Long before China's six hundred and five thousand million tons of coal begin to give out men will probably be using the limitless heat of the sun. And then we shall be calculating how long that heat will last, probably.

We ought to wonder how long WE will last, for that is our real problem. Nature has attended to all the other problems.

Coulthurst the Next Mayor

(FROM THE ROXBURY GAZETTE.)

We notice that Rev. Herbert S. Johnson has expressed the hope that the present Democratic party in Boston will next year nominate Mr. Bernard J. Rothwell. Evidently Mr. Johnson has a fair opinion of the Democratic machine of this city. We know that the machine would no more select Mr. Rothwell than that the Republican party would choose Governor Hughes for its presidential candidate.

There is no doubt in our mind that Mr. Rothwell would make a good Mayor, but unless we are astray in the near future, after the Independence League and citizens of Boston have elected John A. Coulthurst Mayor, and he has given several satisfactory terms of administration, the citizens of Boston may decide to nominate Mr. Rothwell and elect him to continue the reform administration of Mayor Coulthurst.

Some Sample Stories

THE BUSINESS STORY

RIGGLES wanted to become a prominent citizen of Kimono. To become a prominent citizen he observed that it was necessary to accumulate money in large packages, and to do this quickly and successfully his observation led him to believe that the best way was to form a trust.

There was already a street car trust in Kimono, so there was no chance for Riggles to become the Ryan of his town. Nothing doing in the gas business, either.

At last Riggles thought of candy. Most everybody buys candy, for one's self, or one's girl, or one's kids or nieces, or somebody or other.

Why not bring all the candy stores into one ironbound combine?

Riggles began his work.

Every one fell for the idea.

There was to be only one candy store in the town, and the present proprietors of the other stores were to have stock in it. By this means rent on twenty-five stores was saved, to say, nothing of the large sum in wages.

Riggles is now not only a "prominent citizen," but one of the "leading spirits in our community."

THE ANTI-BUSINESS STORY

HIGGLES sat on the beach and looked at the sea.

He looked at the sea again.

And again.

Tired at last of the labor of looking, he closed his eyes, but continued to breathe, the effort being unfortunately necessary to keep in existence.

"To life is to live," said Higgles to himself, as he rose and started in the direction of dinner, eating being a disagreeable toil, but also necessary to prolong his idling.

"An artist never labors," further remarked Higgles, as he walked along the sand.

Another epigram—which is the only kind of thing a man can say without the effort of thinking—was interrupted by Higgles's foot striking a strange substance on the beach.

A boy happening to be in sight, Higgles hailed him and gave him a dime to carry the substance home.

Next day Higgles discovered he had a large chunk of ambergris, worth in round figures $777,777.

Higgles invested his money, and now he works like a slave every day trying to increase it.

Often he takes three seconds off and looks out of his skyscraper window at the blue sky and says, "Why, oh, why, wasn't I too lazy to call the boy to pick up that stuff?"

It is truth that makes a man angry.—ITALIAN.

The Best Land for Women

They Are Growing in America as Nowhere Else

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

Copyright, 1908, by American-Journal-Examiner

KATE TRIMBLE WOOLSEY, an American woman by birth and breeding, but now living abroad, has written a book entitled "Republics vs. Women," in which she showers bouquets upon monarchies and pelts republics with a broadside of unpleasant facts and a volley of sarcasms.

Among the disagreeable truths in this volume of nearly 300 pages are the following:

We have in America six million white women forced to slave for a living. These women are not allowed to vote, and men are the opposers of such a privilege. Every effort made by women has been opposed by the Republic. It gives woman no voice.

In America no streets are named after women—no interocean steamers, no docks—as in many monarchies. No political offices are held by women in New York, where women pay millions in taxes annually.

No counties, States or mountain peaks are named for women.

The presidential inaugural processions contain no women, as do the corteges of coronations.

No woman's name has ever been mentioned in any inaugural address since the beginning of the Government.

No woman, in recognition of her individual merit or services, has ever been entertained at the White House.

It is illegal, against its very National Constitution, for the American Government to tender thanks to a woman, however great her services may be.

No woman was ever granted a National or State funeral in the Republic!

For Men to Consider

THESE and lesser crimes—such as the "impossibility of a woman claiming the prerogative of addressing a proposal of marriage to a man, as one at the head of a monarchial aristocracy does"—make interesting reading and meditation for American men.

The extremely laudatory tone of the book toward monarchies is slightly nauseating to the democratic taste; and, unfortunately for Mrs. Woolsey, the monstrosities which took place at Kishineff render her flattering references to Russia in its treatment of women as ridiculous as untrue.

"There are no other women who are so free socially as those in the land of the Great White Czar," says Mrs. Woolsey, "and the Russian Government is doing more to advance the interests of our sex than the combined republics of the world.

The number of women murdered in America is something appalling—eight thousand to one thousand in the same time in Russia. The Czar by a sweep of his pen struck off the chains of serfdom from millions of his subjects, while the Republic waited to be driven from its system of human slavery by fire and sword."

All this is very shallow, very bombastic, very untrue, for all Russia is still in shackles—even the Czar himself.

Merit Consideration

THE recent events in Russia, familiar to us all, are answer enough to such assertions, which seriously mar the strength of Mrs. Woolsey's book.

But when she says, "This land of America, which has produced women of matchless deeds, in the mountains and characters as broad as its soil, has not a public monument to any woman," she gives us food for worlds of consideration.

And when she makes the following assertion—"I defy you to show me a single right, liberty or privilege, either political, legal, civic or social, ever allowed woman by a republic that is not allowed by a monarchy"—she throws down the glove which some republican student ought to take up and answer with carefully prepared facts, if they are obtainable.

Personally, my belief is that, in spite of all the unpleasant testimony Mrs. Woolsey has accumulated against republics, it is from republics the great human race will develop and evolve.

Woman may not receive individual honors here, but, as a class, she is more honored and has more freedom and more opportunities than in any other spot on earth.

She is growing here as in no other land, and from republics will come the great leader for whom the world waits.

More New York Corruption

(FROM THE NORTHAMPTON HERALD)

New York, William R. Hearst was elected Mayor by 28,000 majority.

Then follows the story of how District Attorney Jerome failed to act and even ridiculed the charges when it was submitted to him, but now Tammany is thrown into the greatest consternation by the exposure, and while the evidence cannot be brought to undue advantage at this late day, it is confirmatory of the story which lies hidden in the sealed up ballot boxes now before the courts and makes the recount seem more imperative.

It will also aid in the punishment of some of the confederates of the man who has turned state's evidence. The story of this man is the most startling story of corruption which has been made public since the days of Tweed, and its most significant feature of it all is that not a single New York paper other than the American has noticed it. It shows what has long been suspected, that they would wink at any corruption and crime which would down their hated rival.
